

Andrew Witkin: simal-, simil-, simul-, -semble @ Theodore: Art

Andrew Witkin, installation at Theodore: Art (photo courtesy of Theodore: Art)

by ALLISON GALGIANI

The inaugural exhibition in this new (much larger!) space provides the perfect setting to experience Simal-, simil-, simul-, -semble -, new work by the Boston-based artist Andrew Witkin. A blend of found objects and materials mixed with the artist's own texts, Witkin creates an entire room exhibition that can be conceived through its disparate parts or as a whole. Working with elements of process, redaction, and appropriation, all of the elements of the installation show their effort, and the laborious nature of thought.